

1. Accused of embezzling funds from my employer through unauthorized financial transactions. Conviction was based on transaction logs and email correspondence.
2. Working from home, managing company finances. Any transactions were part of my job duties.
3. The "victim" is my former employer, who alleges the transactions were unauthorized.
4. I maintain all transactions were authorized and within the scope of my duties. Misunderstanding due to lack of proper communication.